

Which Chinese Restaurant You should Go in New York?

Introduction

According to the U.S Travel Association in 2019, Chinese tourists spend $6700 per person per trip average. And the trending of Chinese student study in the United State is rising. That is why, we can clearly notice that there are more and more Chinese restaurants opened in the United States, especially in the big cities. Our main targets are tourists and students who want to explore Chinese restaurants.

Methodology

Since New York is one of the biggest and most populated cities in the world, I will use FourSquare API request query to collect the location data for the New York City. I will use Category ID to find Chinese restaurants in New York City and try to get the information about the restaurants from API,

Analysis

After we explore the location of restaurants, we can easily see that most of the restaurant are located around China town. So, if you want to try some good Chinese food, then you should definitely pick a hotel that located beside China town.